

Professor Attila Tóth, MSc, PhD

(Debrecen, Hungary)

Professor Attila Tóth is a biochemist, and Chairman of the Molecular Biology MSc. program at the Medical Faculty of University of Debrecen. He got his PhD in 2001, and became a Full professor in 2016. He received the „Master Tutor Gold Award” from the National Student’s Scientific Society in 2019 and the Talent’s Prize, National Academy of Scientist Education in 2022. His main scientific interests are regulation of vascular function by transient receptor potential channels, modulation of cardiac contraction by positive inotropic agents, and developing new technologies in personalized medicine. He supervised 9 graduated PhD students.